

Jill Collins, Council Member

Jill has worked on a variety of projects since joining the Women in Science, Engineering and Technology team at Sheffield Hallam University in 2004. Specialising in creating inclusive work experience placements in STEM, Jill has created careers education materials and delivered career development training for teachers for a number of years.

Working with schools, employers, careers organisations and other external clients has allowed Jill to develop a range of programmes and projects to promote inclusive practice.

A member of the CDI since its inception, and previously a member of one of the founding organisations, Jill has been a member of the Council for 3 years. She is a member of the CREST Stakeholder Group at the British Science Association and on the Programme Leadership Team of Career Ready.

In her spare time Jill enjoys going to the theatre, cycling and walking and is developing a new-found interest in gardening. She was elected to the CDI Council to represent the England constituency in October 2015.
