

Marcus Burton

I currently work on the National Careers service contract supporting adults over the age of 19 years. Over the last 8 years I have advised people at all levels of education from pre-entry ESOL to Doctorate, employed, unemployed and often possessing several barriers to progression.

I left school at the age of 16 and joined Barclays Bank as a Junior. After 4 years I moved in to sales with a Finance company and then left to join a small Building Society in another sales role. After 2 years I was promoted to Branch manager. Seven years later I lost my job, moved in to recruitment and after 2 years in the job achieved number 1 position nationally in my division out of 130 consultants. Tired of recruitment I left to enter the dizzy heights of the careers world and have never been happier 'Planned Happenstance'

Being a member of the CDI and on the UK Register of Career Development Professionals gives me the confidence to promote my qualifications and experience to individual clients and businesses that I work in partnership with. It demonstrates that I take my profession seriously and commit to CPD constantly developing my knowledge and experience to support others in achieving their goals.

Contact details:

marcus.burton@aspire-igen.com

07738 212051

@Leedscareers

<https://www.linkedin.com/in/careerconsultantYorkshire/?ppe=1>

“The Register demonstrates that I take my profession seriously and commit to CPD constantly developing my knowledge and experience to support others in achieving their goals”

